

Changing Times – Changing Perceptions

Spirituality speaking, the past 12 months have been very challenging for us on various levels as new energies directly impact and alter our light-body complex and consequent physical, emotional and spiritual states. This is due to spiritually-enabling energies pouring into our part of the Cosmos from the eye of our Central Sun. These powerfully enabling energies are helping us to rewire, re-tune and re-boot our crystalline body perceptions of Reality, what is real and what is not. It's all in the DNA, baby!!

These are the times we have been waiting for and they are helping us to choose between the old, dark and blinkered ways or alternatively, provide the impetus for us to think anew and choose realities which work within these new energies. There is no 'sitting on the fence' anymore because the shifting sands of world events, our perceptions of 'time', justice/injustice and our 'fit' within the world we thought we knew is rapidly changing. Change is the order of the day and we really need to welcome these unfamiliar vistas in unconditional love and gratitude. A new world is being birthed yet we have to say goodbye to the old before we can welcome in the new. The dark stuff is finally playing itself out and they refuse to go without a 'fight'. Alternatively, we can swim against the tide and cling to the old ways of doing things. This works up to a point but once that point is reached, you will know its not working anymore and you will just have to let go and go with the flow. This will be both a spiritual and physical release.

The energies from our Central Sun are neutral, they are neither good nor bad, they are as they are and serve in lifting the veil on our daily encounters with each other in ways un-thought of just a few short years ago. The past 2,6000 years or so have been characterized by dark, oppressive energies. Much has already been uncovered in terms of the control of global finance, manipulated wars, manipulation of the thought processes or 'perceptual boxes' of the masses via the control structures of education, religion, science, media and even within the very processes of music, fashion, fads and tastes. In fact almost any social process involving large numbers of individuals have been subverted to slavish and dark ends. This appears to be the way of the world but the pendulum of these Dark Ages have almost reached their apex and we are slowly waking up to the fact that things are not what they seem, but more importantly, we have the power to decide to change the familiar to the unfamiliar.

There are however, a few things we need to consider. Within the Ultimate Analysis, All is One. At one level we are knowingly aware that we are splinters of Creation and have full recognition of our magnificence. We know that the game of Life on planet Earth is but a holographic illusion or more aptly, can be described as a 'holo-game'. The objective of the game whilst we are still in 3D body/reality is to recognize and realize that we are more than physical body and that we are individual yet collective splinters of the All That Is having a series of Experiences. At this Creative level we are family and before coming to planet Earth we made agreements to do stuff to each other so that we have suitable environments in which to experience whatever we chose to experience within 3D reality. We incarnate lifetime after lifetime in 'family' groupings, in one life we are the mother, in another the father and in yet others we could be the son, daughter, nephew or niece. The combinations are endless (almost) hence the term, 'old souls'. Thus, in one life we are a saint in another, a sinner, soldier, baker or candlestick maker. The agreements we make with each other whether we are the murderer or the murdered are made in service to All and in Love. At this level of analysis there are no abusers or abused.

Although time itself is one big illusion, at the time of our birth we are imprinted with the energies of our place of birth dependent on the relative positions of our celestial bodies, the sun and the planets etc. These recombinant planetary energies are markers of potentials that 'stamp' us with certain traits and characteristics. This cosmic 'imprint' also applies to the place of your birth i.e. continent/country. It is fairly clear to those able to 'decipher' the behaviors of planetary bodies that at certain stages of individual or planetary growth, the potential for this or that to happen will in some form come to pass. To add to the mix, the 3D environment is the only planet of free choice. This means we are more than some form of 'cosmic blueprint' programmed to do things in a particular way at a particular time. What we choose to think and do can either raise the energies of the planet to the betterment of the All or alternatively, these free choice energies keep the energies of the planet in retrograde status to service of Self. The holo-game also takes place within epochs or Ages which I see as 'cycles within cycles within cycles'.

We are now at a stage where the ending of cycles within cycles within cycles is just around the corner. The Mayas code this end date for December 21 2012. Language is a poor substitute for describing reality so by calling this date as an end date I mean it is an end to how we are with each other in this apparently mad, mad world that we live in. This is 'show time' in the biggest sense of the word and we all have ringside seats; we can see the action as its playing out. In fact, we are all participating in the 'Grand Event' in a more conscious state, (some more than others) than other star beings thought possible. Part of this unmasking or 'lifting of the veil' is to realize that we are simultaneously, the script writers, directors, producers, actors, stage hands, audience and critical reviewer. Family dynamics within its most appropriate context.

Recognising and realizing that Life is a spiritual experience within the constructs of a holo-game, logically and knowingly leads to a state of fearlessness. Fear of not having enough or not being enough, not paying the mortgage, being a 'good mum or a 'good dad' disappears. Lack of fear opens up opportunities for growth, for seeing Life/Change itself in literally, a new light. In this state of knowing you cannot be manipulated to do something you do not want to do, go where you do not want to go. The new energies streaming into our consciousness are actually re-writing the hardware of our DNA so that we can participate more fully in the game. We can see beyond the game and our controllers don't like it because their sand-like grip on shaping our perceptions of reality are quietly but powerfully shifting beneath their feet.

It is almost important to remember that you have the final say in how you choose to experience your Experience. Discernment is key and you will know its right when you feel its right. Your first intuitive feel of a situation is usually a good indicator of what to make of yourself or a situation. Its nice to know and understand the 'rules of the game' but no-one knows the All of everything so we have to feel our way within the holo-game in order to see the wood from the trees. Also remember that if you are reading an article from someone you know to be speaking great truths, what they write may or may not come about in the manner described. Life is full of potentials and probabilities. How can you predict an event that transitions dimensions or densities when just 1% of the global population spontaneously acquire God-like Consciousness? All the rules of the holo-game and fabled prophecies fly out the window!!

There are also many earth and planetary changes taking place as we rapidly approach the Maya end date. Nearly all the planets within our solar system are heating up. Many of them contain no carbon dioxide so its not global warming. Our earth is cooling and we are heading into the next mini ice age, extreme weather events are with us and time itself is measurably changing. Physicists are unable to explain the change in decay rate for radioactive substances which has been a mainstay and physical constant since 'time' was able to be recorded. New species of plant and animal of every description are appearing at both the North and South Pole regions of our planet. The Schumann Resonance has also dramatically increased in frequency. The sun although close to its predicted maxima in terms of its sunspot numbers is quiet and space physicists do not know why. When sunspots do erupt they chuck out enormous amounts of energies and particles. The dark controllers are really worried that CMEs (coronal mass ejections) wipe-out their covert space technologies of mind manipulation, surveillance and star war weapons. The Change is here and it's happening now.

So, in spite of all the confusion, death and destruction seemingly going on in our lives, within a quiet spot of our consciousness right now is a knowing that when we agreed to come here to experience whatever we wanted to experience, we also agreed on a solution as well. There is nothing in our lives that cannot be solved or lived with, absolutely nothing. Much of the seeming futility in Life can be experienced differently if you have but just one different thought about its origin and conclusion. As someone once said, to solve a problem using the same energies that created it is futile. That time is upon us, do we react to the same situations in the same old tired ways or do we view each situation as an experience that is asking us to view it and its outcomes differently? The onus is on individual change and subsequent action. We change the world by changing ourselves and subsequent perceptions of what we would like Reality to be. The birthing process of that New World of Service To All, not to Self has already begun and is in full swing. Only we can do that and our free choice decision literally has the power to change the world, if we want it to.
