

The Relationship to GAIA

Live Kryon Channelling
Mt. Shasta, California
Saturday, April 24, 2010
As channelled by Lee Carroll for Kryon

The information below is free and available for you to print out, copy and distribute as you wish. The Copyright, however, prohibits sale in any form except by the publisher

LIVE KRYON CHANNELLING "The Relationship to Gaia"

This live channelling was Given in Mt. Shasta, California
Saturday, April 24, 2010

Don't miss the links at the bottom of the page!

To help the reader, this channelling has been revisited [by Lee and Kryon] to provide even clearer understanding. Often what happens live has implied energy within it, which carries a kind of communication that the printed page does not. In addition, this particular channelling was added to substantially! So enjoy this enhanced message given in Mt. Shasta, California, with the additions that Kryon wanted read.

Greetings, dear ones, I am Kryon of Magnetic Service. There's an energy here that represents home, and for some of you it is thick. As my partner translates these words from those thought groups and pictures that I give him, it appears to you that this is my voice speaking these words. In the years that he has been doing this, it is indeed the best that it can be for now, for his translations will give you the emotions of the heart as well as the logic of the intellect. This means that this language is, therefore, complete, for it is the balance of these two that gives you discernment to judge that what is happening here is real, authentic and accurate.

Last week in your time, my partner was in another country and I gave him information about Gaia. At the same time, I advised him not to record it, so that he could hear it, be part of it, anticipate it, and be clearer with the message that would be recorded. That would be now.

So the message this night is all about your relationship to Gaia, what is happening on the planet that you understand, some things perhaps you don't understand, a review of some of the things many of you have not heard, and then the discussion of new things you might not have heard. We start with the energy of a remembrance.

The indigenous of the earth, the ancients, revered the planet they were on. It was like a mother/father to them, and they considered it a source of all good things. It supplied the food, both from the forest and from the ground [hunting and planting]. It supplied water, and gave them shelter, even when it seemed angry. Mythology developed around it and many stories prevailed. Many of the gods of old became depictions of the energy of Gaia. And rather than put it into one scenario of singularity, often the divinity was split into many, god-like energies of the sea, of the air, of the land, of the crops, of the sun, of warmth, and of the cold. But this was always in respect. This has been the longest held view of the planet, and has existed with the indigenous even up to a few hundred years ago... always in respect.

The Lemurians saw it and were some of the first to establish a protocol with Gaia, seeing Gaia as an energy of consciousness that you then labeled as Mother Nature. And it's this consciousness that we wish to speak of today.

The Lemurians discovered that there was a balance that could be accomplished through the give and take of nature. It was almost like you would go to visit a friend. You'd bring a gift, and so Gaia always was given gifts in return for requests. These offerings always created a balance for those who considered nature to have consciousness. If you took something from the land, you gave something back... something simple, but something you owned or possessed and that had your energy upon it.

Now in the process of modern civilization, dear ones, even among Lightworkers, this has not been sustained – for you do not get up in the morning and make an offering to Gaia. You may do all of the other things - talk to your cells and have visions that intertwine with your Higher-Self - but somehow that entity which is Gaia is left behind.

So here is a channelling that invites you to reestablish your connection to the energy of the earth. This will rebuild a bridge of consciousness of the Human Being with Gaia. For Gaia is in service to humanity and changes itself as your consciousness changes. Remember the premise we gave to you long ago? The consciousness of humanity on Earth actually goes into the ground [The Crystalline Grid]. This is stored and the earth responds. Dirt does not respond, but Gaia does. So you might say that Humans are actually in charge and responsible for Earth's changes and shifts.

If you can realize this, then you are going to have substantial control over what is going on Earth-wise. But you must again start by having a relationship. Right now, Humans only look at it in fear and say, "What is happening? I'm afraid of these changes that are outside of the normal I am used to." The Human is not understanding that much of what is happening, he has caused! It isn't a causation through anything humanity has done in an environmental way, but as humanity in an awakening, consciousness way.

You Are Shifting Time

So to put this in context, let us again review what we have said about the weather. Twenty-one years ago, I had my partner write in a little white book, the potentials of your future. That future is happening today. The reason we were able to give you this prophecy back then is because we saw the very strong potential of a consciousness shift taking place on this planet that would be so great it would affect Gaia. And it has.

It's such a profound shift that you have actually manifested a change in the time frame of humanity and, therefore, the perception of your reality – warning: science coming [Kryon smile]. Now, this is something we don't expect all to understand, but time is all relative. It does not move at a constant pace. Although your 3D clocks move at a constant pace, time can be altered by speed, as well as some quantum attributes that we will not speak of. It may seem that things are speeding up, but this is relative to your time frame, not your higher vibration. They are seemingly opposed to each other.

A train that leaves the station at near the speed of light and travels in a circle will arrive back at the station with a different age than the station. It will be younger, and the station will be older. By going faster, it slowed down time for itself, but not for the track it was on, or the station it had left.

Two clocks side by side can start together, but if you somehow were to accelerate one of the clocks – let's say you vibrate it back and forth at a very fast rate – eventually it will not be the same time reading as the other clock, for speed can be an oscillation just as much as a constant forward speed. Now, the clock in motion is you. The clock that did not move is Gaia. So the first perception is that things around you are speeding up. However, the truth is that your increase in vibration is creating a slower clock within you; speed actually creates a slower time frame. But as you look out the window at the world, your slower train makes life in general appear to be moving by quicker.

The reason is that it is the Lightworker who is vibrating far faster than 20 years ago. Your "consciousness speed" is very much like some of the quantum attributes you study, and it is creating a split between humanity and the old energy it used to "sit within." You are in the middle of the great shift, and the beginning of the 2012 enlightenment time fractal. Gaia shifts accordingly, but Gaia is not Human. Gaia shifts in other ways to accommodate your new Human vibratory rate increase. But as you look at things around you, they appear to be going faster. For some, this is irritating, and even causes loss of sleep and anxiety. Many are feeling it.

So although confusing, the truth is that the Lightworkers of this planet have created a shift of consciousness in the last 23 years that has changed the actual vibratory speed of Human consciousness. This has changed the time frame for humans, and given the perception of an earth speeding up. The perception is that you have sped up time. The reality is that your consciousness time frame is moving slower, more like that of Spirit. Have you ever noticed that God moves slow and Humans are an impatient lot? This is because God's time is not in your time frame. This is starting to change as you evolve spiritually. Did you know that Earth was created in seven days? They were "God days." Getting the point?

Global Warming – Not Long Term

The weather you have today, and all the alarming attributes of it, is a scenario of what was scheduled to happen on Earth anyway. I review again that the weather changes you are seeing prophesied by myself, 21 years ago, are not a surprise. The changes are not caused by the pollutants you put in the air. You call it global warming and that's a nice phrase, and perhaps that will get you to put less pollutants in the air – a very good thing. But what you are seeing in the weather shift today was not caused by Humans putting things into the air. It would have happened anyway in about 300 years.

We've called this process the water cycle, since it's all about water, not about air. The water is the predominant attribute of Gaia and of the weather cycle you're seeing. More predominant is the temperature of it. The cycle is ice to water and water to ice, and has been repeated on this planet over and over and over. It is not new. It is not exceptional. It is not frightening. But it's a cycle that modern humanity has not seen before, and it's a long cycle that is beyond the life span of a Human Being. Therefore, it tends to be overlooked or not seen at all!

In the days of the Lemurians, the water level of the Pacific Ocean was almost 400 feet lower, and that's only 50,000 years ago. [Kryon invites science to check this out – the water level at that time.] That was a water cycle working, and the reason it was lower was due to so much of the water being stored as ice. Today you're going through another water cycle that will eventually lead to cooling. The last one was in the 1400s; science sees that at about 1650. As mentioned, they are so slow there is no remembrance that a Human has of them except in past writings and in the rings of the trees. The time span of the changes is so great that environmental record keeping does not exist in the form that it does today. But you can still look at the rings of the trees and at the striations of the rocks and can generally figure out that a few hundred years ago, you had a mini-ice age. Now you're going to have another one.

It's not an emergency, and there is nothing to fear. You've gone through it before. Humanity, even without technology, has gone through it before and survived. All you have to do is recognize it and make arrangements to get out of the way – and learn to perfect the desalinization of sea water so you will not be left thirsty [a channelling of the past addressed this]. It's a 400- to 600-year cycle. But the turning points of it are obvious, and it will last only about 50 years (the transition).

Twenty-one years ago, we told you there would be a time when you would have places that could grow crops where crops would never grow before. Also, there would be places where no crops would grow that used to be fertile [Kryon, Book One]. It's the water cycle. So I bring to you this: Do not be alarmed. Do not be afraid of what you are seeing today. It's changing in front of you, but because you have never seen it before, it is frightening and it seems unexplainable; therefore, you look for the logic of it and assign the reason to something Humans did. It isn't anything Humans did. It's the Gaia water cycle.

The first thing we wish to bring to you is this. The ice is melting. You knew that. As the ice at the poles melt, there is an incredible shift in weight in those areas where it used to be. It's a tremendous shift in the weight of ice, some of it on land, and some of it suspended in the water, but the weight of ice is concentrated at the poles. As it turns to water, the weight is then distributed all over the globe. Therefore, think: the weight which is on the poles of the planet is redistributing itself in a liquid form around the crust. As the ice melts, you're going to have a tremendous weight shift to a very thin crust. Therefore, the crust is going to adjust accordingly, creating earthquakes and volcanoes. Look at where the volcanoes are exploding—close to the poles. We again say to you what we have said before: Chile has not seen the end of it either, for there's a volcano or two there that really want to erupt. Whether it does or not is the potential of what this lesson's about.

Do you have a relationship with Gaia or don't you? Can you give instructions for Gaia to shake less in areas that are populated? Do you believe you have that power? This is the Human Being: Consciousness over matter. It has a relationship with the planet that wants to hear from you. As the crust adjusts, you're going to have more shaking. There's going to be more volcanic activity.

Lightworker, listening to this in the room or reading this, thousands of you need to re-establish the relationship. Then watch what takes place: Earthquakes in unpopulated areas, an under-the-ocean earthquake without a tsunami event, volcanoes that affect no one. It's possible. It's doable. This is what is happening at the moment with Gaia, so don't be alarmed at the sudden increase in activity. What we're saying is it is normal. It has happened every single time the ice has melted and reformed.

Now, here's something you should know. Science knows it and it does not follow the global warming environmental theory. The ice is melting from underneath. Take a look. It has nothing to do with pollutants in the air. This is a natural occurring cycle as the water becomes warmer. It also increases the potential of storms. Now, do you have a relationship with Gaia or don't you? What would you like to tell Gaia about where the storms should be? Do they follow the old track as they always have? That is linear information. Or, can you tell Gaia you prefer the storms to follow a track that is not with Humans in the way?

Magnetics: Always a Player in The Shift

Many things are happening with the planet at the moment. The magnetics are changing as well. The magnetics of the solar system and the sun in particular, have an influence on your weather. How many sun spots have you seen lately? What do you think about the correlation of a sun that has very few, with your earth climate? When can you remember that in your lifetime? What does it mean? I will tell you, dear Human Beings, that it's all related to what's happening on the earth. You may not understand the correlation, but I will tell you there is a profound one. What if [astronomy hint coming next], what if sun spots were created by gravitational and other interdimensional forces caused by the orbiting planets? Has there even been a correlation made between sun spots and the positions of the planets? Too weird? The invitation is there to see the correlations.

The sun is the fulcrum of the interdimensional gravitational pull attributes of the planets around it. There is information that is interdimensional – call it a gravitational patterning, if you wish – which the sun generates every moment of the day. As the planets push and pull on the fulcrum of the solar system [effect the sun through gravity], they affect the sun's attitude. These patterns are unique every day, and they intersect the magnetic field of the earth as they are blasted from the Sun in what you would call the solar wind.

The solar wind is a magnetic heliosphere, and has very multidimensional properties. This magnetic wind strikes the earth, intersecting with the magnetic field, and you can see it! You call it the Aurora Borealis. It's one giant magnetic field [the sun] intersecting another [the earth]. Science calls this intersecting phenomena inductance. In that intersecting energy, there is a transference of the informative patterning of the sun [at that moment] to the magnetic grid of the earth. Now, it's the magnetic grid of the planet that you sit in. All of life does.

Now we give you information we've given you before: The Merkabah. That is to say, your DNA imprint - the field around you - receives the magnetic grid's sun information, and the instructions within that field are passed right to the DNA, which is also magnetic. I have just given you the magnetic transmission chain that you think is esoteric. It's not. It's hard science. But to think that the interdimensional, magnetic and gravitational attributes of the solar system are going to your DNA is very esoteric. Some call it astrology. The truth is that it's for humanity, and also for Gaia! For remember that it is the earth that is part of the magnetic chain of information to your cellular structure [the Magnetic Grid]. It tells it when to do what it does. It's all related. So how related are you to Gaia? How much do you address this consciousness?

Things You Don't Expect – Gamma Energy

There is another thing that is related that is yet to be understood by science. There are other sets of instructions to Gaia, which come from a place you don't expect. There's a lot of energy hitting the earth, a tremendous amount in the form of gamma energy. Science wonders where it's coming from, but it remains elusive. They realize that it's cosmic and coming from space. The truth is that it's coming from the center of the galaxy, but it appears to be coming from everywhere. That's because the main attribute of this kind of energy is that it is not 3D. Therefore, it has quantum [multidimensional] attributes that do not carry a "location" or place of origin with it. This is difficult to explain, but things in a true quantum state are everywhere, entangled in a universal soup of being "one" with everything. Therefore, you can't say "it comes from there." There is precedent in science for this, so it is not all that strange to a physicist reading this.

An example: Did you know that very low, deep audio sounds have no discernable, directional source? In other words, the Human ear can't tell where they are coming from. High sounds are very directional. Testing this is easy. Place a deep sound [very low vibrations per second] speaker, hidden in a room, and you can't identify where the sound is coming from. Place a normal speaker in a room [with higher sounds] and you can target where the sound is coming from instantly. The reason is that the vibrations are so far apart in the lower sounds that the ear can't distinguish "location." It's the same principle with things that are in a quantum state. They are not perceptually in any "place" and no 3D instrument is going to locate "where" they are coming from. In fact, the very idea of "where" is very funny, for "where" is just for 3D creatures. That's why "God, where are you?" is a very cute and simple-minded question. The answer is, "Yes."

There is what your science has called a singularity at the center of the galaxy. They also call it a black hole. Now we have told you there is no such thing as singularity, and even your science knows it is an oxymoron in physics. It's also only a black space called a hole, since you can't see any light there. Because you have no interdimensional physics laws yet and because you have absolutely no instruments that can "see" interdimensional energies, you still don't really know what's actually there. Long after my partner is gone, you can read these words and know the truth, as you eventually develop these things. When you turn them upon the center of the galaxy, you will see two very clear sources.

Instead of one singularity, there is instead a polarity. This polarity is a push and pull attribute of an interdimensional law you have not yet discovered or at least not yet recognized. Once you do, you will have the missing two laws of physics, for there are six, not four. This push-pull polarity blasts out its own interdimensional message to the entire galaxy and your sun receives it as well. These polarities at the center of your galaxy have a connection with all the other galaxies, too – something for another channelling. You might say that matter has a message, or matter that cannot be seen has a message and it hits the earth constantly and powerfully in ways that "talk" to Gaia.

So here you sit, Human Being, feeling that you are a victim of what happens with Mother Nature. But we are telling you this: the message of today is to reawaken the relationship with Mother Nature, the Gaia source. Once you are able to do that, you will understand that you are in control of all of it. No matter what the instruction sets for the water cycle, for the seasons, for that which you think is uncontrollable, you are more powerful than you can imagine. The intensity and locations of volcanic activity and earthquakes are alterable with this relationship to Gaia and the indigenous knew it! They could make rain when none was in the forecast. You called it ignorance! They could grow crops in places where they shouldn't grow. You called it lucky. They honored the land and gave gifts to it, and they received from it. This is absolutely real and is everywhere in your history.

Humans tend to feel they are so modern in their thinking. The elders of old would look at you and shake their heads. You have figured out how to make machines and artificial brains and even life! But you have left the real power in the dust.

The Shift

Now we get esoteric. In these past years, something has happened. We have described this in the past and we're going to give it to you again. Added to the puzzle of your shift in consciousness, and trying to figure all this out, is the attribute that is starting to seemingly speed up time, as we discussed. Again, it is the perception caused by you vibrating faster and, therefore, slowing your spiritual time down. However, this creates a perception that what is around you seems to have sped up. Think of it this way: many of you feel you are vibrating faster. Buzzing, are you? Anyone relate? [Kryon smile] At the same time, you feel things around you are going faster. Now you know the reasons for all this.

Some of you [get ready] are actually able to go from point A to point B in a time faster than is possible in 3D [even in your car]! This is not that weird, for you are simply moving between your time and the earth time.

I told you I'd speak of that and here it is. In a past spiritual scenario of birth and death, in an older energy, the Human comes to the planet and learns whatever it is he wishes to learn and then passes away. What you call death is simply a shift of energy and is the coming and the going of an incarnation that we call an expression. In that scenario, there is a visit two times to the Cave of Creation - once coming and once going. The Cave of Creation, more than an esoteric place, is a physical place that we told you is interdimensional. Therefore, it is invisible and will never be found. But it is on the earth and needs to be because of its relationship to Gaia. The Human Being's core soul record - that which is your record of the piece of the creator, is stored in the Cave of Creation. Every time you come and go, you rekindle that expression's energy.

You might think of it perhaps as a crystalline structure with a stripe put upon it for every lifetime you live [like the rings of a tree]. But it is the spiritual accounting of the Akash for the earth. It is different than the Akashic Record that resides within your DNA. It's a separate one, which represents the planet's accounting system. And in the past, here's how it worked. Whatever you accomplished on the planet when you passed on created an essence that was left in the cave. All that you knew, had done, and learned became part of Gaia. The vibration of the planet, therefore, is postured by what you do and what you become. This is how the planet's vibration either increases or decreases, depending upon what Humans do collectively while they're here.

With the next incarnation, you came into the planet and visited the Cave of Creation first and activated the essence of your soul crystal. Then you lived another lifetime, passed over, came back to the Cave of Creation and another stripe was put upon the crystal. All that you had learned was again deposited there upon what we have called the Crystalline Grid. That's the part of Gaia that vibrates esoterically. And this is how Human consciousness in the past has affected Gaia. In 1987, you gave permission to change this system.

This is why we're here. I arrived in 1989. I've always been here and I always will be. The grid adjustment group left in 2002. But the manifestation of the messages happened in 1989 and through my partner's willingness, we started to give you messages that were not available before that time, for the earth was not vibrating high enough yet to receive them before then.

That's when you changed the rules [1987]. This met with opposition from those who were metaphysical that such a thing could be, that the actual esoteric system would evolve. For the bias of esoteric thinking was just like it is in science – that there is a static system that never changes and all you have to do is figure out the attributes of the energy of something that never changes and you will be able to control it.

There is very little understanding to this day that even the rules of physics evolve. As the planet vibrates higher, the rules change, the formulas change. This is the quantum attribute of physics in general, and it's very much the way of esoterics as well. You have evolving galaxies, evolving solar systems, evolving planets, and evolving consciousness. This is all because there is no such thing as a static set of laws for everything. You just changed them.

Since 1987, here is the new scenario: Human Beings come into the planet; they visit the Cave of Creation and they put their essence into the crystal. Then they begin to live their lives. Ahhh. But now, as they live their lives, have epiphanies, hold their light, learn what they have to learn as old souls, it is going directly to the Crystalline Grid in real time. Death is no longer required to transfer the information to the planet. This new system even changes how long the Human stays. In an old system, which had you die before the Crystalline Grid could receive what you learned, it was imperative that you die to allow your information to pass to Gaia via the cave. Now it isn't.

Listen. It's time to start understanding that your life span is now in your hands. It is not part of an ancient energy system that needs death as a transference vehicle. Karma doesn't matter, and here you are with control over your cellular structure, the Crystalline Grid, what you learned, the very time frame of the planet, volcanic activity, earthquakes, and even when you leave! You might say, "Well, Kryon, really only a master could do that." And we say, exactly! You're studying mastery. The energy systems being given to you today that are new and have happened in the last 20 years are mastery systems. They are all about you changing your perception of you. So we are saying that you are slowly returning to the ancient system of a powerful relationship with Gaia. And the one who channels Gaia will tell you this, for she knows. She'll also tell you that you did not cause global warming, because she knows.

So here we are, dear Human Being, with knowledge we've given you today that invites a rekindling of a process that some of you are ignorant of. So the lesson of the day is this: go study the indigenous, for they had it right. Take a long look at those who tilled the land even where we sit, for they had it right. Look at the mythology they had and find the seeds of truth within it, for they had it right. They saw Gaia as a friend, as a mother/father.

Before we close, I want to return to basics.

When we first came here using a channelling communicative process, we told you that things had changed. What we've just described is only one of the changes, and it was controversial. But the one I'm giving you now is even more controversial. It stirs up a lot of emotions. It is that masters are self-enabled, and you are learning to become masters. As you vibrate higher, you reach out in a metaphoric way and touch the face of God yourself. No intermediate Human Being or process is needed, ever. A Human Being alone in the closet discovering all the parts and pieces of themselves is all that is needed. Look at the majesty and the light that is there. Feel the self-worth. It doesn't require that you come to a lecture or hear a heart-warming channel or read a book. Just being alone, with the discovery of who you are, is the way to your mastery lineage.

Old soul, it is what you've known and lost and are now rediscovering. Go out enabled. These things I bring you in this time, in this day, in this way, are truth. For in the process of this, you kindle even greater light. In the process of this, it goes right to the Crystalline Grid and Gaia responds. And before you know it, you'll have that percentage we spoke of; less than one half of one percent of humanity has to plant the seed of an awakening consciousness within. Blessed is the Human Being who asks the questions, for in the asking of the questions about God in them is pure intent to let the seed grow into knowledge and over time into wisdom, then discovery.

That is the message of today. It's all about Gaia. Or is it? Perhaps it's all about you? Take these things that are given and translate them into your reality. This message is given this day under the shadow of the mountain that speaks so clearly of these things [Mt. Shasta]. The family is there, and if you look hard you can see that they walk the streets of Shasta, because it is time for them to do so. And if you really want to know more about that, just travel up the hill a little ways, and perhaps some of them will even give you a hug. And you'll know it.

And so it is.

KRYON

Interesting Links from science that begin to backup Kryon's statements...

Scientists Claim Earth Is Undergoing Natural Climate Shift - University of Wisconsin

New Ice Age 'to begin in 2014' - WorldNet Daily

Global Cooling Is Coming - and Beware the Big Chill, Scientist Warns - Fox NEWS"

Earth on the Brink of an Ice Age - Pravda - Moscow - 2009

HOME

ABOUT KRYON

SEMINAR SCHEDULE

MAGAZINE

STORE

CHANNELLING

FREE AUDIO

Q&A

USE YOUR BROWSER'S BACK BUTTON TO RETURN TO THIS PAGE!

